August 3, 2026

TOLLAND, CT – Mastercam, the world's leading CAD/CAM software provider, today announced the strengthening of its customer support network in Germany through expanded partnerships with WDS Software & Service GmbH and robotized rm systems GmbH.

As part of Mastercam's ongoing commitment to customer success, WDS Software & Service GmbH and robotized rm systems GmbH will serve as the only authorized Mastercam Channel Partners in Germany, providing sales, technical support, training and professional services to customers throughout the country.

The move reflects Mastercam's strategy of simplifying its route to market while strengthening local technical support, training resources and customer engagement in one of the world's most important manufacturing markets.

Both organizations have been trusted members of the Mastercam ecosystem for many years and have built strong reputations for technical expertise, customer service and manufacturing knowledge. Their expanded roles will provide customers with improved access to local support resources, specialist application expertise and professional training services.

"Germany remains one of the most important manufacturing markets in the world and a strategic focus for Mastercam," said Stuart Adams, Regional Executive Director, EMEA.

"WDS Software & Service GmbH and robotized rm systems GmbH have been trusted members of the Mastercam ecosystem for many years and have consistently demonstrated a strong commitment to customer success. By expanding their roles within our authorized Channel Partner network, we are simplifying our route to market and strengthening our ability to provide customers across Germany with expert support, high-quality training and local manufacturing expertise. Our focus remains on helping customers maximize the value of their Mastercam investment."

This transition forms part of a broader initiative to simplify customer engagement and provide a more streamlined support structure while maintaining continuity for existing Mastercam customers.

Customers will continue to receive access to Mastercam software, maintenance, technical support, training and professional services through Mastercam's authorized Channel Partner network, delivered exclusively through WDS Software & Service GmbH and robotized rm systems GmbH.
